

Gum Grafting

Gum grafting also has cosmetic benefits to help you feel more confident with your smile.

About

If your gums have receded to a point where the root surfaces of the teeth are already exposed, you may require gum grafting surgery. It is sometimes possible to graft tissue from your palate or another donor source to cover a bit of the exposed root and to reinforce the fragile, receding gum tissue and protect it from further damage.

Gum grafting also has cosmetic benefits if you feel your teeth are too large and are embarrassed by the amount of exposed tooth. Gum grafting can also be used to lower the gum line to a more attractive level: this also increases the overall health of the teeth and gums.
